

My artwork is transformed experiences.

Its form and content can vary significantly based upon the type of experience.

Paint and canvas are preferred materials to investigate inner, more personal experiences. They are structured understandings and feelings that seek visual cohesion despite a reliance on multiple hierarchies and readings.

For outer, more public experiences I frequently use artifacts and biological forms. These are used in sculpture and printmaking.

Summer 2018